Virtual is here to stay

Get ready to step into your virtual world

The world was always going to go digital. But no one saw 2020 coming.

Virtual working became the standard almost overnight.

Tools like Zoom, Teams, Google Chats went from being something leaders used to liaise across offices and squeeze extra meetings into a packed travel schedule to a fixture of everyone's working day.

The way we communicate at work has changed forever.

But what does this mean for the way you deliver training?

Concerns about safety, cost, and efficiency abound, and they're well justified.

After all, if you can deliver the same learning outcomes from anywhere to anyone and bring minds together without the need for expensive hotel stays and carbon-heavy travel, what's not to like?

That said, you can't just take your existing material, run it over Zoom, and expect to achieve the same outstanding learning outcomes your participants deserve.

Delivering magnificent, live, and interactive virtual training experiences is a skill all of its own.

And that's where we come in...

Our Story

A long time ago, we thought making the move to virtual training would be straightforward.

We were wrong.

To begin with, it was very tough.

Balancing our focus between the tech and our learners was a challenge. Getting interaction going and infusing energy into our workshops felt impossible at times. As a result, those horrible tumbleweed moments were a feature of our first, uncertain steps in this new virtual world.

That was over 10 years ago.

But we stuck with it!

Since then, we've explored different approaches, processes and methodologies to establish the principles that underpin everything we do. We practiced, reviewed, and practiced some more.

Now we know that we can create live virtual learning experiences that match (or even exceed) what the best of face-to-face learning has to offer.

We learned to LOVE virtual training.

So, in 2016 we created The Virtual Training Team to focus solely on the design and delivery of outstanding virtual training.

We developed our team and built our first studio dedicated to delivering training virtually (expertly managed by Julesy the cat).

Now, our crack-team of experienced, accredited coaches deliver incredible live and interactive virtual training across countries and continents.

We learned the hard way, but you don't have to.

The Virtual Train the Trainer Programme for Facilitators will give you the knowledge, tools, and practice you need to deliver superb virtual training, forever!
